

---

SALUTATION:

FIRST NAME: SUNG YOON

LAST NAME (SURNAME): CHO

INSTITUTION/HOSPITAL:

DEPARTMENT OF PEDIATRICS,
SAMSUNG MEDICAL CENTER,
SUNGKYUNKWAN UNIVERSITY,
SCHOOL OF MEDICINE,
SEOUL, SOUTH KOREA

SPECIALTY: PEDIATRIC ENDOCRINOLOGY

Mobile number:82-10-4627-1217

Brief CV

Sung Yoon Cho is an Assistant Professor of Department of Pediatrics at Samsung Medical Center, Sungkyunkwan University School of Medicine, in Seoul, Korea. Her research and clinical specialty lies in pediatric endocrinology and genetics.

Dr. Cho received her medical qualifications from Ewha Woman's University School of Medicine (Seoul) in 2004 and a Masters in Medicine in 2012 from the same institution. The Doctorate in Medicine was attained at Sungkyunkwan University in 2015. Dr Cho began her career as an intern and a resident at Ewha Woman's University Hospital and progressed to Clinical Fellow, Division of Genetics and Endocrinology, at the Department of Pediatrics, Samsung Medical Center.

Dr. Cho has authored more than 90 research articles which have featured in prestigious international journals, including the American Journal of Human Genetics, Human mutation, Orphanet journal of rare disease, Clinical Genetics and Clinical Endocrinology. Dr. Cho is interested in the field of rare genetic disorders including osteochondrodysplasia, lysosomal storage disorders, and has been involved in numerous clinical trials on genetic disorders including Mucopolysaccharidosis, Prader Willi syndrome, and endocrine disorders including precocious puberty, diabetes mellitus, SGA, idiopathic short stature, and Turner syndrome.

---